

Teens Trained 4 Greatness Attends National College Fair in Charlotte, NC

On Sunday, March 12, 2017, seven teens in GHA's Teens Trained 4 Greatness (TTG) traveled to snowy Charlotte, NC, to attend the National College Fair held at The Park Expo and Conference Center. TTG members interacted with admission representatives from over 300 institutions of higher learning. The teens walked up and down numerous aisles picking up handouts and asking important questions like, "What does my G.P.A. need to be in order to get into your school?" This free event was sponsored by the National Association for College Admission Counseling.

Attending this college fair was a great TTG members to start the college exploration process. The three seniors and two juniors in the group used this opportunity as an information gathering experience. The sophomore, who wants to be a fireman, and the 8th grader, who wants to major in Graphic Arts, asked a few questions but they all realized that grades matter and college is an option.

Taylor Boyd & Kayla Pemberton (Riverbirch) sign up for more information about Guilford College.

Anasjah Boyd (Claremont Courts) talks to Georgia College's Graphic Arts Program representative.

Essence Cooper (Claremont Courts) reads about the Citadel.